This aircraft, on display with the USAF Exhibit Unit, is the world's first successful rocket plane. The ME-163 dropped its landing gear on take-off to decrease its airborn weight. It landed on a heavy skid mounted underneath the fuselage. The rocket engine in the tail of the plane weighed less than 300 lbs. and gave the plane a speed of 560 miles per hour.

The fuel supply, gasoline and hydrogen peroxide was quickly expended giving the aircraft, a time limit of 5 to 6 minutes in the air.

Few Objections

To 72 Relocation

At Clifton

Practically a formality, a public hearing in Clifton's Town Hall Wednesday, dealt with vacation of a "dog leg" curve section of State Route 72, immediately south of Clifton, a preliminary step to relocating the road in Clifton and south of that town.

County commissioners, to whom the vacated road will revert as part of the county highway system, attended the state highway department hearing and only minor objections, generally based on misunderstandings, were voiced, it was reported.

The state department plans to eliminate the sharp curve by building a new road for a short distance there. The part of Route 72 abandoned south from South River Rd. will revert to the county system.

Engineers for the new road will be across lands of C. E. Spencer, Chester M. Preston, A. Stafford McCullough, Walter B. Corry, Russell B. Steward, Charles Grube and others, state engineers report.

Ask Bids for

72 Relocation

Bids have been asked by the state highway department on relocation of Route 72 in the Clifton area to eliminate dog leg curves there.

Bids will be received until 10 a. m. Aug. 16 and the project must be completed not later than Nov. 30, 1950.

In all, the job involves 4,386 miles of pavement, including two concrete slab abutments over the Little Miami river and mill race. The relocation lies in Cedarville and Miami townships in Greene county and Greene township in Clark county.

Wilson Galloway Sends Del Mar Book to Fair

The mail on the Greene Co. Fair Secretary's desk piles up higher each day. But there is one piece of it that should prove of particular interest to many folks in the county who know the Galloway family and its branches. This letter follows:

Transit Mixed Concrete Company, Pasadena, California.
Dear Mary:

I spent two days at the fair at Del Mar in sales work for this company, as we have a building there made from our blocks. So I picked up a book for you as I know you will find it interesting.

Of course too, I am aware that the time is approaching for another grand and glorious "Greene County Fair," as our children insisted in calling it.

Kindest regards to you and all friends there.

Yours truly,
Wilson W. Galloway

The handsome official Program (8x11) which Mr. Galloway sent us, carries color on its covers. The front announces, San Diego Fair at Del Mar, "by the sea," it is indeed, for its broad avenues extend from the foothills to the wide Pacific. The back cover depicts the huge grandstand, all ready for the races of the "Turk that meets the sun."

This fair has a five day Horse Show . . . and while Xenia has but two evenings, Tuesday and Wednesday, Aug. 2nd and 3rd, these promise to be high lights of the annual fair.

The California fair makes much of its flower show and one need not use much imagination to know they do have superb blossoms to display. But Greene County flower exhibits evidence improvement each year. This should be a banner year considering the splendid growing weather that has been occurring for some time. The several Garden Clubs are pruning and preening their flowers now, to have their showings well worth a trip to the fair. So are the individual flower growers who show their posies in open class.

Since fish and game are in sea and foothills, San Diego makes quite a point of these sports. But Greene Co. has its fish and game devotees too. Just ask E. J. Group District Conservation Officer about that. And be sure to see the Conservation exhibits at the fair.

The type of agricultural products exhibited at the San Diego Fair (June 24-July 4) of necessity vary from those of our temperate climate. They show avocados, citrus, peaches, grapes, celery, tomatoes, barley and alfalfa. We may well be proud of our corn, wheat, oats, poultry, and livestock. California shows the unusual tropical fruits of custard apple, sapotes, papayas, litchi nuts and guavas.

The San Diego Fair is a large one. According to their map, some 50 buildings appear to take care of every need and want. Such as a Kiddie pool, given over to the care and entertainment of children. This is the place to which lost children are taken. Of course at the Greene Co. Fair, the lost children are taken to the Sec's office where announcement is made of their whereabouts.

Usually a few minutes the parents are located. Meanwhile the lost one is entertained and perhaps made to forget his plight by the gift of an ice cream cone.

At the western fair, a Bubble Gum Contest is scheduled for the delight of the youngsters. This fair also has a magician, and a special attraction of "Icelandia, Fiastacade on Ice." That requires a very special kind of equipment.

So the festive spirit pervades our own Greene Co. grounds from the time the gates are opened until the last visitor leaves at night.

The California style show probably would do Hollywood credit, but our own style show, staged by 4-H club girls, gives credit to Mrs. Dorothy Stambaugh, Home Demonstration Agent, is always excellent and in harmony with local needs. Many a grown-up gets her ideas from the principles followed and the originality shown in the design of these stage show garments.

The California fair also stages an "old car race" and a "truck rodeo." Our races run to the lines of cars waiting to enter the grounds, each morning of our four day fair.

It was mighty thoughtful of Wilson to send this booklet of the California fair along with his greetings to friends about the county. Its good to know that youngsters and adults too, recall the past fairs as "grand and glorious." This booklet is at the Secretary's office where anyone interested, may see it.

George Dodds to Celebrate 87th Birthday next Sunday

Scotsman George Dodds named his son, born July 31, 1862, George Fremont Dodds, branding the offspring as a Republican, as George Fremont was the first Republican candidate for president of the United States.

George Dodds and his young wife were living in Yellow Springs in 1862, attending sessions of Antioch College under the presidency of Horace Mann. Incidentally at that time the village was a sort of resort town, the college being its main interest.

George Dodds and his older brother had come to America and after completing their education opened a monument business in Madison, Ind. Later they chose to have their business somewhere in Ohio, and Xenia was selected because of its railroad facilities.

The firm was A. & G. Dodds in its early years. In 1911 the firm was incorporated as George Dodds & Sons Co. The personnel included the venerable father and his six sons, only three of whom are living—George Fremont of Xenia; Earl of Milford, Mass., head of the company's eastern branch, and Leslie J., retired, living in California. Many years ago Leslie Dodds became associated with Wilson Brothers of Chicago, serving as the company's European buyer.

So Sunday is the 87th birthday anniversary of one of Greene county's oldest native sons and well-known business men.

"How do you plan to spend your birthday?" a reporter for this newspaper asked him as they chatted in his comfortable office in the Dodds building in Xenia.

"My sister and I will have Sunday dinner at the Bee and Thistle, in Osborn," he smiled. "George (Giver) is her son, you know, and Dorothy and I like to go to his modern restaurant for Sunday dinner."

Mrs. Dodds died in 1944, after they had been married 56 years. "You are looking mighty well," said the reporter frankly. "I am feeling well, too, and am very grateful," he smiled.

"It's nice to see you at your desk."

"I like to be here, though Charles Bone and Phil carry the load, but I am here all the time I can."

"Your name goes on and on," remarked the reporter.

"Yes. We want it to," he said. A remarkable man, honored and honorable, and 87 years old next Sunday!

Three Directors

Resign Posts

On Fair Board

Three directors of the Greene County Agricultural society, sponsor of the county fair, whose terms expire this year, have resigned effective with the close of their present terms.

Directors submitting resignations when the board met at the fairgrounds Saturday afternoon to complete arrangements for this year's fair, Aug. 2-5, were B. U. Bell, Xenia, treasurer, who is completing thirty years as a member of the board; Mrs. L. H. Jones, Miami township, who has served consecutively since 1924 and was the first woman ever elected to the board; and Ernest Jenks, Silvercreek township, who is completing his first three-year term.

Six directors will be elected to succeed them this year. Purchasers of 1950 season tickets will be eligible to vote and balloting will be conducted at the secretary's office on the grounds Thursday and Friday, Aug. 4 and 5, from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Other directors whose terms expire this year but are candidates for re-election are Gerald Bock, Jefferson township; Earl Ritenour, Ross township; and Elmer W. Wolf, Beaver Creek township.

There will be two candidates for treasurer this year. Purchasers of the nominating committee of which H. M. Van Pelt, Spring Valley township, is chairman, presented the slate of candidates at Saturday's meeting.

County Treasurer H. J. Fawcett and James H. Hawkins, Fairground Road, were named candidates for Mr. Bell's place on the board. Mrs. Leroy Jacobs and Mrs. A. R. Kirkpatrick, both residing on the Clifton pike in Miami township, will be candidates for that township's director as a successor to Mrs. Jones. Charles Leach, Sr. and Heber Keach, both of Silvercreek township, will seek the directorship from that township made vacant by Mr. Jenks' resignation.

Mr. Bock will be opposed by Gilbert Ream of Jefferson township; Mr. Ritenour's opponent for Ross township's representative will be Lester McDaniel and William Shawhan will oppose Mr. Wolf for the Beaver Creek township directorship.

Merchants Clinch Tie For First Place

Townley's six - hit pitching and timely hitting gave the Cedarville Merchants at least half of the NABF League pennant Sunday afternoon when the Merchants tripped Hankel's of Springfield, 4-2. The victory sewed up at least a tie for the flag and a victory next Sunday would give the Cedars undisputed first place.

Townley gave up only six hits and batted in three runs for the winners as they rolled to their tenth triumph in twelve league starts.

The leaders will meet Lawrenceville on the Cedarville diamond next Sunday in an attempt to cop the undisputed league Championship. Game time will be 3:30 p. m. It will be the final game in league play for the Cedars.

SAVING THE STRAW

A new operation has been added to the farmer's work schedule. A trip round our community last week would have revealed dozens of wheat fields being de-strawed by a very modern process. An early discovery in the era of the combine was that straw left lying on the ground killed the young grass coming on in the stubble. Immediately farmers set about to solve the problem, and in doing it they set a new harvest-time task for themselves. The straw is raked and modern automatic balers bundle it, and presto, two things have been accomplished: The grass is beckoned upward, and the straw, a time-honored utility on the farm, is baled for any uses the farmer wants to make of it.

DISPLACED PERSONS

Our county is receiving a group of D P's — displaced persons. Bombed out, warred homeless—no homes, no work, no future—they turned, prayerfully to America. Thousands of them are finding new homes in a land so different from what they have known that few of them can believe it can be anything short of heaven itself. Can you imagine how our country must look to them? Not a sign of a bombed-out city. Not a hint of poverty, or hunger or penury. No fairy story ever told them as children was as fantastic as what they are seeing. Oh, if we could appreciate it like they do!

BRINGING THEM UP

"Bring up a child in the way it should go . . ." You know the rest. Besides reading it in the Book you have seen it demonstrated. We are giving a lot of attention, and rightly, to bringing up children in the way they should go. The story of the 4-H camp, and its activities was cheering. Young people, our very finest, being taught lessons of leadership, and sharing playtime, worktime and prayertime together. We can build a nation of fine folks that way.

God Can Be Trusted

Lesson for July 31, 1949

EVEN if you do nothing else with this lesson, it will be a good thing to learn by heart some of the Psalms of Trust which have been selected for your study this week. They are far too rich to be treated in one column.

Who Can Trust in God?

PSALM 34:16-22. Not every one has a right to trust in God. Those who do not believe in him, do not love him, work against him, try to break down and corrupt those who do believe in him—these need expect nothing at his hand. But there are three classes of persons who are encouraged to put their trust in God. One is the "contrite," the repentant, those who sincerely wish to be cut free from their sins—these can surely trust in God for forgiveness. One who cannot trust God for forgiveness has no right to trust him for anything else. Then the "righteous," as the Psalmist calls them, have a right to trust in God.

If that word means only the perfectly and altogether good people, it would leave all of us out. But in the light of the Bible as a whole, the righteous are those whose dominant desire is to love and serve God.

Their service is imperfect, their love is far from perfect, and no man is without sin. But if you can say with Peter, "Lord, thou knowest that I love thee," then you have a right to trust in God. Also the broken-hearted can safely trust in him. Whoever else may break your heart, God will not. He is the great Mender of hearts. For the little sorrows there may be lesser comforts; but the real heart-breaks only God can cure.

Why Trust God?

PSALM 37 gives an answer: The opposites of trust is worry, and worry never did any good at all. Worry eats into the mind, costs no light, gives no strength, solves no problems, worry makes any trouble worse. Then the writer of Psalm 37 gives another reason for trust: he had tried it. If trust in God were simply a doctrine of theology or a theory of preachers, not many people would take it seriously.

Trust is really passed on by a kind of contagion from heart to heart. If there are not more people who know what trust means, it is because those who have known have kept it too much to themselves.

It would be a wonderful stimulus to most churches to have a little "cell" of people who would really agree to trust God every day.

When to Trust in God

ONE of Dickens' famous characters used to make a great point of being cheerful under the most un-cheerful circumstances. Anybody can be jolly when everything is lovely, he said. There's no credit in not worrying when there's nothing to worry about. Although the writers of the Bible, one and all, trusted in God, not one had an easy life. Read Psalm 46, for example; it gives a picture of a world much like ours of today, shaken to its foundations, torn by wars, a decade, discouraged world. If it made sense to trust only under bright skies, religion would have perished long ago.

For What Shall We Trust God?

NO ONE PSALM puts the whole truth in one nutshell. If you read Psalm 91, for example, by itself, it would seem to prove that if you trust in God you will never die a violent death, nor an early one; but too many saints (and indeed our Lord himself) had died early and violent deaths, for us to take Psalm 91 in that way. Trusting in God does not mean he will give us long life. It means he will give us strength to match our days.

It does mean he will give us all we need. It does not mean we shall be shielded from troubles. It does mean he will save us from troubles greater than we can bear. It does not mean that in this life we shall be wholly free from burdens or from pain; it does mean we shall have strength in our souls (Ps. 138:3).

Which is the greater thing—to be a weakling wearied by a straw's weight, or to be one of God's athletes, able to bear the worst the world can pile on?

CLARENCE J. BROWN Writes With a Buckeye In Congress

The House adjourned Monday of last week in respect to the memory of Supreme Court Justice Murphy, whose death in Detroit that morning was unexpected. According to Capitol cloak-room gossip, the President will name either Senator McGrath of Rhode Island, also Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, Senator McMahon of Connecticut, or Senator O'Mahoney of Wyoming to fill the vacancy on the Supreme Court.

Last week this column, based on the latest information received from the Department of Agriculture, stated there would be no acreage restrictions on the 1950 wheat crop. A few hours after the column was written the Department changed its position and announced a 17 per cent cut in wheat acreage for 1950 planting was being ordered. However, if the Agriculture Department has not again changed its thinking, there will be no marketing quota set on the 1950 wheat crop.

The announcement last week by Representative Hugh D. Scott of Pennsylvania that he will submit his resignation as Chairman of the Republican National Committee at its meeting to be held on August 4th, was not unexpected on Capitol Hill. Scott, who is not a member of the Committee, and who had been elected as Chairman at the insistence of Governor Dewey following the close of the Republican National Convention at Philadelphia last June, has had a tempestuous career as National Chairman. He is of course continuing to represent his Philadelphia District in the Congress.

Despite the last minute appeal from Speaker Rayburn to his fellow Democrats to stand by the Truman Administration, the house last Thursday turned down the Pace Bill, which would have authorized a "trial run" on the Brannan Plan and substituted in its place a measure by Congressman Gore of Tennessee to continue the present farm price support program, under legislation enacted in 1933, with only a few minor changes. The bill now goes to the Senate for the consideration of that body. The National Grange and the American Farm Bureau were opposed to the Brannan plan and the Administration-sponsored Pace Bill, but favored the Gore substitute bill.

The under-cover proposals of the Administration to transfer atomic secrets and supply atomic bomb mechanics to the friendly foreign governments is meeting with strong opposition on Capitol Hill. It now appears most unlikely that any such action will be taken.

The State Department is expected to soon announce a new American policy toward China and the Orient. Recent developments in the Far East, and the organization of the new anti-Communist Pacific Union under the leadership of China's Chiang Kai-Shek, is forcing this change of position by our Government.

The Truman Administration, which six months ago was demanding complete control over prices and wages, supposedly to prevent inflation, is now going all out for more public spending, easier credits, and more business activity, to stop the deflation or recession now spreading over the country.

As we had been predicting in this column, the Senate last Thursday ratified the North Atlantic Defense Pact by a top-heavy majority. The vote in favor of ratification was 82 to 13. However, many Senators who voted for ratification expressed grave doubts as to the wisdom of the action taken. At the same time they also expressed the belief that failure to ratify the Pact, after Mr. Truman and his Secretary of State had sponsored it, would have an extremely bad effect on our international relations.

Two hundred and eighteen House Members have signed a discharge petition to take away from the House Committee on Post Offices and Civil Service, and bring to the Floor for a vote, a bill to give a pay increase to the nation's postmen. The measure, which is said to be opposed by Truman Administration leaders, is expected to pass the House but may run into difficulties in the Senate.

The Ohio Congressional delegation has been hard hit by illness recently. Congressman Cliff Cleveland, of the 5th District, has been given a leave of absence from his official duties to recover from an eye ailment resulting from intensive study and work as a member of the House Appropriations Committee. Congressman John M. Vorys, of the 12th District, has just returned to his Capitol Hill offices following an attack of virus pneumonia. Representatives J. Harry McGregor, of the 17th District, underwent an emergency operation a week ago to relieve a painful and dangerous ear infection, and is now recovering satisfactorily at the Naval Medical Center near Washington.

The Presidential message requesting funds for furnishing military aid to a number of foreign countries, which was scheduled to be presented to the Congress Friday of last week, has been held up until some time early this week. It is understood the President will request an appropriation of $1 billion to $1.5 billion to furnish military supplies to the nations of Western Europe who are signatories to the North Atlantic Defense Pact. An additional $300 million is being requested for American military aid to other foreign nations, including Greece and Turkey.

Plants, Like Humans, Are Finicky Eaters

Isotopes Tell Amounts Of Fertilizer Utilized

Atomic scientists have learned that some plants, like some human beings, are finicky eaters.

This new knowledge, important commercially, is the result of exhaustive tests with radioactive isotopes of phosphorus in fertilizers. Radiotopes, sometimes called "tracers," are atoms whose nuclei emit high-energy rays that can be detected by sensitive instruments. Thus, the movement of substances containing such atoms may be followed or traced at all times.

Before radiotopes were used, it was impossible to tell how much fertilizer a plant would absorb. But by using radioactive phosphorus in phosphate fertilizer, for instance, scientists know the amount each plant takes.

As a result, a scientist now can tell a farmer who spends $50 to put phosphate fertilizer on his land whether the plant only "nibbles" or takes a bite big enough to repay his expense.

During these experiments, scientists were surprised to discover that plants sometimes have distinct likes and dislikes for certain "meals." For example, it was learned from tests in North Carolina that corn liked the phosphate from fertilizer for a time, then would switch to the phosphate which had been present before fertilization. In Maine, the potatoes preferred the fertilizer phosphate all the time.

This man works on an extraction apparatus in Oak Ridge, Tenn., as part of the program for the nationwide distribution of beneficial radioactive isotopes from the uranium chain-reacting atomic pile.

In other cases, plants would seem always to prefer the phosphate already present in the ground, instead of the meal prepared by the farmer.

One of the world's foremost producers of baby foods, chewing gum, coffee and peanut-butter recently became the first representative of the food industry to become a member of the atomic research program at the University of Chicago.

Small Turkey Talk

The young lady poses a close-up on a very young turkey—one of the streamlined variety created to meet modern demands for small birds to suit small families and to fit kitchenette ovens. Each of several of the older varieties contributed one or more of the desired characteristics to this small white variety, characterized by a compact body, short legs, long keel and plenty of breast meat. Careful records on thousands of birds from carefully selected stock were necessary before the "apartment size" turkey was developed.

Summer Milk Slump Costs Farmer Plenty

"Summer slump" in milk production costs farmers plenty in good hard cash. On the average farm there is about a 30 per cent drop from May until early fall. Some of the loss in production arises because a higher percentage of cows are dry or approaching the end of their lactation period, but many dairy specialists believe that much of the loss could be prevented by better management.

ALWAYS THE GOOD PROVIDER

New, Longer Hogs Produced In Minnesota

Minnesota hog scientists have developed a "new look" in hogs, a streamlined animal from snout to curled tail, which may revolutionize the hog business, they say. They call the new-model hogs "Minnesota No. 1" and "Minnesota No. 2," which sounds like they were going to run "east and west on the railroad, and in fact they are intimating that these hogs will do more railroad riding than any hogs ever have—'little pigs going to market' being the theme song.

They are not content to stop with hogs, but are streamlining sheep, too, with No. 101 and No. 102 on the schedule. "This is not a promotion, not a demonstration, but an experiment," says the spokesman for the "pigs in pigs" movement up in Swedeland.

Experiments have been going on for 25 years, and results are being tabulated with all details. The scientists are elated over the progress of their work and the product they are presenting to the world. And they say they have only begun.

Draft Horses Have Little Value Now

"The fire has burned out under the draft horse market." In these words Frank Hunnicutt, for 60 years a dealer in draft horses and well known to three generations of Greene county farmers many of whom he served regularly, summed up the farm-horse situation as he finds it.

"I saw you with two nice-looking horses in a truck the other day," suggested this newspaper's reporter. "Where were you going with them?"

"They went to John Wise, a farmer in below Greenfield. I suspect they'll be the last farm horses I'll sell this season—maybe the last I'll ever sell," he said. "But some farmers here and there use horses don't they?" The reporter asked.

He smiled: "Well there may be some 'there' but there's none 'here' that I can find." "I get around the country a good bit myself, and come to think of it all spring in 3,000 miles of driving I didn't see but one team of horses doing any farm work, and I remember now they were plowing a garden in the edge of Bellefontaine."

"That's about the way it runs—one team to 3,000 miles; and that one team is for sale," said the dealer, one-time dealer that is.

"What did the team bring, do you care to tell us, as Tom Howard on 'It pays to be ignorant, says'?" "I got less than $100 for the team, and it was good team, too; two bays, nicely matched and weighing 3,600 pounds, 8 and 10 years old. I've sold many a team, not as good as they were, for $500, and oftentimes for more than that," he narrated.

"Not only are the horses disappearing, with no market for them, but what horses are left are being sold to the 'killers' to be shipped abroad, or to use certain kinds of food preparations here at home—but horses as horses for farm work are no more."

The horseman of yore and the reporter separated, each going his way, but not horseback, each

CLEAN BEFORE YOU STORE

Will your "winter things" be moth bait this summer? Not if you send them to New Cedarville Cleaners for expert dry cleaning. Dirt and grime work into fabric — often invisibly . . . then moth worms have a feast. Before you store, let New Cedarville Cleaners "proof" your clothes against the menace of moths and silver fish.

Portable 5 HP Motor is Versatile Farm Worker

Mr. H. R. Pharis of R. R. 51, Paris, Ohio, is shown shoveling ear corn into his feed grinder powered by a 5 HP electric motor.

Mr. Pharis shows James Tate the two fans used to force air through his hay, enabling him to cut hay in the morning and put it safely in the mow later the same day. The fans are driven by 5 HP motors.

There's a lot of work done on the H. R. Pharis farm—with only one hired hand, James Tate. That's because Mr. Pharis believes in making the greatest possible use of portable utility motors.

The Pharis farm herd of 37 holstein cows requires a lot of feed grinding—to say nothing of the hogs and chickens raised on the farm. Mr. Pharis' grinder and motor outfit shown in the picture, is capable of grinding almost a ton of ear corn per hour, and a much larger amount of other feeds. The ear corn is shoveled into the feed grinder. The feed is blown from the mill into the feed mixer, thence down into the dairy cattle feed bins.

The fact that a 5 HP portable motor can be used interchangeably on several large jobs makes it a sound investment. It performs the work more economically, therefore frees the tractors for field work, while it takes care of many seasonal jobs throughout the year.

The versatility of the 5 HP Motor is proved daily in the work it does on hundreds of farms where it is used for such jobs as corn drying, hay hoisting, wood cutting, silo filling and grain elevating. For practical suggestions for using this versatile farm worker on your place, consult your county agent, vocational agriculture teacher or the farm representative of your electric service company.
